PRODUCT GIVEAWAY OPPORTUNITY: New 'Dinosaurs for Kids' Book Teaches Creation-based Science

WHAT: How do you answer your children when they ask about dinosaurs and the Bible? The most popular paleontology resources teach evolution and timelines which are inconsistent with the biblical history.

After years of research, Ken Ham developed what he calls the Seven Ages of Dinosaurs: Formed, Fearless, Fallen, Flood, Faded, Found and Fiction. These are now published in his new book, "Dinosaurs for Kids." The primary non-biblical traditions Ham addresses include:

- Dinosaurs roamed the earth millions of years ago; and
- Dinosaurs died out before people came along.

Ham teaches kids what evolutionists believe and how they think, and then compares their ideas to what the Bible says. Readers walk away with a biblically-accurate understanding of history.

WHO: Ken Ham, president and founder of the biblical apologetics ministry Answers in Genesis and the acclaimed Creation Museum.

WHEN: Product is available for give away now through the end of the year.

DETAILS: Giveaway product is currently available for shipment. The giveaways should be conducted between now and the end of the year. Please contact Dan Parker at 972.267.1111 or dan@alarryross.com to make arrangements. Media information is available at www.CreationMuseumNews.com.

"Dinosaurs for Kids" was released last month. It is filled with eye-popping graphics, which teach about dinosaurs from a biblically-based world history. The book is filled with facts about the different dinosaur names and misnomers, what we can learn from their fossils, and what their world was like. It can be used to supplement a science course in school or homeschool curriculum.

Recommended for ages 7-12, the 64-page, hard cover, 8 ½ by 11 book retails for $14.99. "Dinosaurs for Kids" is available at Christian bookstores everywhere, or online at www.masterbooks.com and www.answersingenesis.com.
