How old are you? Take responses. Think back to when you were young. How have your looks changed? Take responses. In what other ways have you changed or grown up? Take responses. Today, we're making a Time Warp Time Capsule. It will be fun because you can record some things about yourself today and then hide it for ten years. How old will you be in ten years? Take responses. That's when you'll get it out again and read it. Do you think you will have changed at all? Take responses. How? Take responses.

You know who never changes? Jesus! He may appear in different forms throughout time—in a burning bush, as a baby, as a man, in a resurrected body—but his character never changes. God is God and will always be perfectly loving, perfectly kind, and good. That will never change!

Class Time Directions

1. Use craft glue to glue the piece of colored card stock to the outside of the container. It helps to roll the card stock first, so it wraps around the container more easily. Add a strip of tape to secure the end.
2. Cut out the labels and clock faces. Then add your name, the date, and the year that is ten years from now to the larger label. Add just your name and the year that is ten years from now to the circle label.
3. Glue the labels and clock faces to the piece of colored card stock to decorate the container. The circle label is intended for the container lid.

4. Fill out the My Time Capsule sheet, then place it inside your time capsule.
5. Other things you might want to add to your time capsule: photos, newspaper clippings, artwork, and a letter to your future self.
6. Close it up, hide it in a safe place, and remember to open it in ten years!

Tip Corner

- Sealing the labels and clock faces with Mod Podge gives the time capsules a more finished appearance.
- If short on time, send the My Time Capsule sheets with the kids to be completed at home. Put them inside the time capsule so they won't get bent.

- When asking for container donations, request that they be washed and have labels removed.
- Cardboard containers are not recommended, nor are plastic peanut butter jars because of peanut allergies.

Class Time Directions

1. Add your name, the date, and the year that is ten years from now to the label.
2. Use markers or highlighters to color the different sections of the label sheet. The top right and top left sections should be the same color, as should the bottom right and bottom left, because they will overlap when the label is wrapped around the container.
3. Place star stickers over the 16 black dots.

4. Use craft glue to glue the card stock to the outside of the container. It helps to roll the card stock first, so it wraps around the container easier. Add a strip of tape to secure the end.
5. Take your My Time Capsule sheet and color a picture of your choice in the large space at the bottom. Then place it inside your time capsule to finish filling out at home.

Tip Corner

- When asking for container donations, request that they be washed and have labels removed.

- Cardboard containers are not recommended, nor are plastic peanut butter jars because of nut allergies.
