Research and studies of ancient man have long been the focus and expertise of the secular world. From evolutionary depictions of cavemen discovering the secrets of fire to New Age shamans proposing mystical alien contact in the distant past, the unbiblical versions of history are many. Meanwhile, the Church has, for the most part, been content to sit back and take no stand on the issue. Accordingly, without any biblical guidance to the contrary, the average churchgoer either accepts evolution as scientific and historical fact or hides sheepishly behind weakly supported Bible stories. But they don’t have to be weak; the Church can stand firm on the biblical record if only they will step up and learn the facts.

There is real data, and many new archaeological discoveries are presenting evidence for an intelligent ancient man, not one that fits the evolutionary “monkey to caveman” paradigm. All over the world there are similar findings of ancient religions, cities and towers, world travel, advanced astronomy, and civilized government. One can find out-of-place artifacts (OOPArts) and other anomalies that can only be explained by intelligent ancient man. For centuries, these finds have been unknown and unheralded. The Church has since ignored the artifacts, being influenced by an evolutionary mindset that does not allow for advanced ancient technology because it seems impossible to explain.

It is time for Christians to wake up and be instructed. What if mankind is not as ancient as “science” claims? What if man did not evolve slowly out of slime, completely ignorant and brutish, but rather was created in God’s image with a likeness of His intellect? What if Satan is real and actively perverting God’s plan? What if man really did gather at Babel, build a tower, form a religion, and instigate a worldwide government? And what if God really did confuse man’s languages, forcing the people to scatter across the earth, taking their religion and practices with them? In other words, what if the Bible really is true?

If we read the Genesis account literally, with a consistent hermeneutic (and we believe in the God who wrote it), then we should find evidence demonstrating a history of intelligent ancient man, descended from Adam. In accordance with the scriptural account of Babel, there should be similar building styles and cultural practices all over the earth. These technologies are exactly what is being discovered, and more each day. A jumble of anomalies and magnificent structures continue to confound evolutionary-focused archeology and anthropology today. Yet, as the dots are connected, an incredible picture appears, one that perfectly illustrates history as it is described in the Bible. Christians, what if your beliefs are actually true? Do you know what it is that your faith actually claims? Do you understand that having a correct interpretation of the Bible influences how you view history and how you should anticipate the future? Did you know that the evidence in the world around you confirms everything you read in the book you call God’s Word?

A Word of Caution

This book seeks to provide evidence that supports the truth of God’s Word and confirmation to your Christian faith. However, because of the nature of the subject and the connections that can be made to the occult, we want to warn you to study the information carefully, as the Romans (Acts 17:11) were instructed, taking everything back to the Bible. For just as Paul says in 2 Corinthians 10:5, we want to encourage you to destroy “speculations every loamy thing raised up against the knowledge of God” and be careful to take “every thought captive to the obedience of Christ.” Some of the data presented includes ancient legends, religions, and cultural practices that we are not promoting, only using them to display further evidence that supports our presuppositions. We would like to carefully and to the truth. Often when we dis-lookout for Satan’s fabrications,

Therefore, it is imperative for all things, Satan longs to be like God (Isaiah 14:14) and hates everything that God does.

Satan is actively involved in assuring that God’s plan isn’t discovered.
Satan distorts everything that God does, inventing an alternate storyline for people to discover, eticing them with lies that seem like the truth. His counterfeits are continuously awarded attention and praise from our culture.
Therefore, it is imperative for Christians to be constantly on the lookout for Satan’s fabrications, because they can be subtly close to the truth. Often when we discover such a counterfeit, it makes it easier to understand and refute the perversion.
Throughout this book, you will be introduced to some of the ways that Satan has succeeded in deceiving mankind with a counterfeit in the past and how he is still actively attempting to do so today (More on Satan’s counterfeits in chapter 4.)
We hope you will take great care as you read our material, taking time to allow the truth to seep into your soul and mind. Let yourself question past assumptions. We encourage you to search out the truth for yourself, always relying on Scripture as your starting point and basing your conclusions off of its truth. The Bible is the inerrant Word of God and the complete authority over man: past, present, and future. Therefore, though man does not have all the answers and Satan seeks to confuse us and distort God’s plan, he will not succeed. In the end, it is God who has the ultimate victory.

Remember, since the Bible says all men suppress the truth in unrighteousness (Romans 1:18), it is not a question of if there is evidence confirming the existence of God and the authority of His Word.
Rather the world knows that God exists — it is only a matter of reminding mankind of the evidence of God’s work and the truth of His Word.

Well, it’s time you knew the answers to those questions and more. This book deves into the fascinating world of ancient civilizations. Discover a time when men could move megalithic stones and build structures beyond imagining, a culture where a new religion was formed and men aspired to be gods, and a world was thrown into confusion by the birth of languages, tribes, and nations.

Over the course of two years, a team of researchers from Jackson Hole Bible College has worked to bring together the different pieces of this convoluted puzzle. Hours of researching, trips to various sites around North and Central America, visits to museums, and meetings with experts have provided the team with an overwhelming amount of evidence for intelligent ancient man. Our goal, to compile information that verifies the accuracy of ancient civilizations such as “Atlantis” or Lemuria.
We find that these legendary coastal cities and islands fit into a biblical post-Flood era. However, the New Age groups view the demise of these empires as part of the cyclic pattern of world genergations whereas we would view the “sinking” of “Atlantis” and the disappearance of other civilizations as evidence of rising ocean levels after the Ice Age.

Introduction

Like most questions about history, these do not have easy, straight-forward answers. In fact, depending on whom you ask, you could get multiple answers from people all equally passionate about their position. You may be tempted to write this book off as “just another theory” and not worth your time, but let us convince you otherwise. This book is different and attempts to explore the topic of ancient man in a whole new light — giving answers based on the Bible.

God’s Word is the ultimate starting point for all knowledge and therefore the first place we should be looking for answers to any of our questions (Proverbs 1:7). From the very beginning of Genesis to the last pages of Revelation, the Bible is authoritative in all that it records. The history of mankind and the universe he inhabits is clearly described in the verses of Scripture. So when it comes to ancient man, we start at the beginning: “Then God said, ‘Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness. . . . Then the Lord God formed man of dust from the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living being” (Genesis 1:26, 2:7).

Adam: the very first human being, fully formed and intelligent, designed to perfection, created with a purpose, destined for a future. With this starting point, in contrast to the evolutionary view of man evolving slowly from slime, these facts are interpreted much differently than secular historical science would lead you to believe.

Following the time line of the Bible, a fascinating world appears out of the past. In this world, men lived for hundreds of years (Genesis 5), and a catastrophic worldwide Flood actually happened, cleansing the planet of corruption (Genesis 6–8). Ancient architects built a tower in rebellion to the one, true God, and languages were introduced into the world for the first time, initiating the scattering of the nations (Genesis 11). In the biblical version of history, ancient men were intelligent, building cities, discovering sciences, and exploring the world. With biblical presuppositions in place, the evidence in the physical world around us makes sense and clearly supports this history. The monuments and artifacts that have been discovered today cannot be properly explained by any non-biblical ideas. Ancient architecture around the world testifies to creativity, intelligence, and worldwide communication. The similarities evident in cultures, legends, and building techniques point back to the dispersion of Babel. Such things are a great confirmation of the Bible’s truthfulness.

Yet Satan has also made it his purpose to pervert God’s truth. His counterfeit storyline has deceived people since those very first days of history and he will not give up until the end of time. He is the “father of lies” (John 8:44), and he is good at it. He has not left history free of his deceptive touch and so we must always be on guard, discerning the counterfeit and standing firm on the truth of God’s Word.

The topic of ancient man does not have to be complicated or frightening. In contrast, the truth about ancient man can be both intriguing and encouraging. With the right starting point — presuppositions based on the Word of God — ancient history comes alive with truth. At Jackson Hole Bible College we have a passion for God’s Word and the truth it presents. We earnestly desire our fellow Christians to have an understanding not only of ancient times and peoples but to have a foundation upon which to build their entire lives. That foundation for their lives should be the Bible and God’s authority in all matters. It starts with reading the very words He wrote for us. Please take the step, turn the pages, and enjoy discovering more about God’s plan for man, starting at the beginning . . .
At a time not as long ago as many people claim (approximately 6,000 years ago), in the beginning, God created. He spoke the sun, moon, and stars into existence. He formed the earth and all that lives and moves upon it. He created the entire universe, and then He made man. Fashioned from the dust of the earth, mankind was created in the image and likeness of God and given the breath of life. That first man rebelled against God, causing the whole universe to be cursed. God Himself placed the curse of death, decay and sin on the whole of creation. Mankind continued to rebel and God judged the earth through a catastrophic worldwide Flood, preserving only eight people. Still men refused to obey, and in response to their collective rebellion at Babel, God confused man’s language, forcing the people to leave the security they had with one another as they were scattered over the earth.

A simple story — ancient history in several short sentences — yet it contains the foundational truths that set human history on its present course and will continue to influence the future to its final conclusion. If man was made in God’s image, then he was created intelligent. If intelligent, then there should be evidence of this intelligence. If man gathered at Babel and God confused man’s language, forcing the people to leave the security they had with one another as they were scattered over the earth.

New-Age Beliefs

The New Age community, with its extremes of occult and shamanism, has been working on the data for some time. They have been amassing information and presenting it to promote their premises and conclusions. Theorizing in mysticism and aliens, these premises and conclusions are diametrically opposed to those of the Christian faith. The New Age and shaman community does not follow the usual evolutionary time scale, which has man evolving many thousands of years ago; rather, they believe evolution occurred much further back, perhaps a million or more years ago. Their premise promotes the idea that there were previous civilizations on the earth, very old and ancient, before ours. In fact, some teach that mankind goes through cycles or ages along with the earth. Each age rises from the ruins of the last, progressing to great heights in discovery and technology only to be catastrophically destroyed, and the cycle continues.

Their purpose is partly driven by the idea that the ancient men of previous periods left behind the truths and histories of their age for future civilizations of mankind to find. Included in these “secrets” is information that could help in dealing with the future and the end of the present age. The cultic New Age gurus begin with the idea of history going through cycles and as such are preparing for the coming end of their own age. If one goes by the ancient Mayan writings, this will occur December 21, 2012, at which time the earth will be destroyed by fire. The present new-age occultists research ancient legends and histories, tracking these ideas and gathering information. They prophesize that as the end of this age draws nearer, people need to come together, seek out more data, get in touch with the spiritual world, and thus save themselves.
Make no mistake about it, these New Agers do not deny evolution; they simply push it back millions of years into the past. In cases such as Erich von Däniken, they claim evolution of our species did not happen on this planet at all but on another and humans were “seeded” here long ago. In Von Däniken’s Chariot of the Gods, he theorized that mankind was placed here by a highly evolved human species from another world. From a secular standpoint, where man suppresses the truth in unrighteousness (Romans 1:18) and erases God from human history, it is easy to see how some might come up with such erroneous conclusions. After studying all the commonalities of ancient man and his incredible intelligence, it is hard to fault such a fantastic theory. It seems at least slightly more plausible than unintelligent human evolution on earth.

These types of theories make sense to a lot of people today and catch a lot of attention from television channels such as Discovery, National Geographic, and History 2. They are able to gain and maintain a following because there is, in fact, data to back up their ideas. Evidence showing the brilliance of ancient man and the commonality of ancient civilizations doesn’t fit with the evolutionary model, so many people will latch on to any arguable explanation.

Unfortunately, the Church has not offered an explanation at all. Believers have let it escape their attention that the raw archeological, anthropological, and historical data exists and must be addressed from a biblical standpoint. Just as in all areas of science, both believers and the unbelieving world have access to the same data. Regrettably, this specific data has, for several reasons, been ignored, and in some cases rejected outright by Christians. Just as mainstream evolutionists have ignored the data because it does not fit their uniformitarian paradigm, the Church has avoided it because it looks strange and meaningless to the truth of the gospel message. Moreover, Christians tend to reject the information out of fear because it is often linked to the cultic expressions of past heritages.

However, the sad fact that this data has been studied almost solely in the realm of the occult and New Age movement should not keep Christians from discovering the truth. The secular world has their theories according to their paradigms and presuppositions, but their explanations are not the only ones. Christians do not need to fear the accumulation of data that seems to support secular, mystical theories because the Bible provides the truth. The Christian paradigm is different. The biblical starting point is different. Thus there are alternate conclusions in contrast to the mystical ideas. Christians cannot run from this topic because the raw data is real and cannot be ignored; however, it is important that the evidence is studied from the right perspective in order to discover truth.

A Biblical Perspective

Now put on a different pair of glasses — biblical glasses: the earth is young; history is young. Yet man is indeed moving to an end of this age, a point in time that will not bring on another cycle but rather the end of the entire world. The biblical paradigm rests on the truth of the short narrative related at the beginning of this section. God is real and exists in eternity. He created a beginning of the universe, formed mankind, judged man, and offers a way of salvation. This same God promises a final conclusion of judgment by fire in which this present earth, sun, and universe are destroyed and replaced (2 Peter 3:10–13). Then begins a state that will continue forevermore — no cycles, no ages: eternity. While the history of mankind can be described in short cycles of repeating rebellion against God, judgment, repentance, and restoration, there is only one age of this earth. God has written the story of mankind, both past and future, tracking the “cycles” of man’s mistakes and accomplishments. Satan, also a real and active participant influencing mankind, has perverted this idea of cycles and has offered the world an explanation involving millions of years, aliens, and mystical forces. Even though there seem to be hundreds of theories regarding human origins, there are really only two options: God’s truth or Satan’s lie. Everyone believes one whether they admit to it or not. It is only at the end, when this world is finally judged and utterly destroyed, that everyone will know the truth.

1 Erich von Däniken is an avid researcher and successful non-fiction writer pursuing the theory that extraterrestrials visited the earth in the ancient past.
At Jackson Hole Bible College, just as at Answers in Genesis, the method of presuppositional apologetics is employed in evangelism and defense of the Bible. This method assumes a starting point for all beliefs. Every person has a bias, whether they realize it or not; an assumption that influences everything they believe to be true. The ultimate starting point, the bias present in this book, is that God, the Creator of the universe, is real and His Word, the Bible, is entirely true and accurate.

By starting with God, one discovers with great satisfaction that the physical world confirms the truth of His Word. Daily life displays countless verifications of the Bible such as:

We find that man’s sin and its consequence, as taught in the Scriptures, answers the question of pain, suffering, and evil in the world:

- Gen. 3:15–19; James 1:14–15
- Gen. 3; Rom. 8:21–22
- Gen. 6–8; 2 Pet.
- Eccles. 3:11; Rom. 1:25
- Gen. 3–6; Rom. 7:18
- Gen. 6:9; Ruth 1:16–17; Acts 9:18–22; 2 Cor. 5:17

Everywhere we look, the death, disease, and chaos inherent to our world testifies to God’s Curse on the planet and the introduction of entropy:

- Gen. 6–8; 2 Pet.
- Eccles. 3:11; Rom. 1:25
- Gen. 3–6; Rom. 7:18
- Gen. 6:9; Ruth 1:16–17; Acts 9:18–22; 2 Cor. 5:17

We find that the universal need for religion confirms that God has set “eternity” in man’s heart:

- Gen. 3:15–19; James 1:14–15
- Gen. 3; Rom. 8:21–22
- Gen. 6–8; 2 Pet.
- Eccles. 3:11; Rom. 1:25
- Gen. 3–6; Rom. 7:18
- Gen. 6:9; Ruth 1:16–17; Acts 9:18–22; 2 Cor. 5:17

Just as the Bible indicates, man, left alone and starting with himself, self-destructs along with his culture and empires:

- Gen. 3–6; Rom. 7:18
- Gen. 6:9; Ruth 1:16–17; Acts 9:18–22; 2 Cor. 5:17

We see in the lives of believers down through the centuries the effects of the regeneration brought by the power and Spirit of God, as men trust in Christ and His work on the Cross:

And so it becomes clear that with the right starting point, all the pieces fall into place. Ultimately, the existence of God and the truth of the Bible, interpreted literally, historically, grammatically, and contextually, provide the key to explaining the past, how to function in the present, and how to prepare for the future. From this ultimate presupposition come other presuppositions, some of which deal directly with the study of ancient man.

This book is founded on and seeks to confirm three specific presuppositions that support the accuracy and authority of the Scriptures as they relate to ancient man and his practices:

1. Authorship and authority of the Bible
2. Man created intelligently in God’s image
3. Babel as the origin of similarities, counterfeits

These three presuppositions provide the outline for this book as each one is expounded upon and supported. Each is a distinct point, yet the three are interlocked and inseparable, overlapping each other, and each is essential for the study of ancient man. The following pages describe the presuppositions separately in hopes to provide a clear understanding of their importance and to emphasize their influence on history.
1. Authorship & Authority of the Bible

Since God revealed the text of the Scriptures, then it does not matter when He delivered the text to the men who scribed it. The Bible is the authority, no matter when it was written or who penned it, because God is and has the ultimate priority in sequence and time.

This first presupposition is founded on the ultimate starting point of the eternal Creator God.

Again, note carefully the sequence that unfolds based on the biblical presupposition:

</tbody>

From the beginning, the stories of the original man and woman, their sin, the Flood of Noah’s day, and the gathering at Babel were all pieces of history passed down from generation to generation. As each father related the events to his sons and daughters, it would not take long for the story to become distorted, exaggerated, and perverted. The stories spread over the entire globe with the dispersion of the peoples, surviving through the changing civilizations, taking on different cultural twists, becoming the lore of the ancients. Thus, today there are hundreds of legends describing a worldwide flood as well as many creation legends (see chapter 9). From the ancient Mayan civilizations to the aborigines in Australia, cultures all over the earth have similar stories about history. Why? Because they all came from a common source, the original literal! The distortions in legends do not deny the biblical account but rather confirm it with their similarities.

Unfortunately, the secular world does not see the biblical account as the original. Without a presupposition starting with the Creator God, there is no reason to choose one legend over another. Historians throughout the years readily latch on to any one particular story and claim it as the truth. For example Hammurabi,1 in very early times, set forth one of the first organized systems of law. His “code” contains many of the biblical elements of justice that God sets forth in the Mosaic Law, but it also lists many biased, unfair, and even mystical distortions. Yet the secular world sees these first laws of Hammurabi as having more significance than the accounts of the Bible. Why is this? Because Hammurabi wrote his code before Moses penned God’s account of the creation, flood, and the laws by which to govern Israel. With all historical accounts there is this problem — the older a text, the more authority, truth, and viability it has. The older accounts are more enaming and enticing to the mind. In contrast, the writings of Moses are seen as a sophisticated version of older legends, a revised copy of older accounts.

Yet starting with the paradigm that God was there first, all of these ancient accounts are discarded. Records and documents such as Hammurabi’s code unquestionably come from legends and practices passed down through the generations, but the biblical account comes from the source. Moses may have been the hand that wrote Genesis, but a God who created the universe had no trouble conveying that information, without error, to the patriarch, God, as the original author, is the ultimate authority — more reliable than ancients like Hammurabi. As such, Moses’ work can be considered the original, free from the errors and distortions that arise from centuries of tradition and story telling.

It is important to understand the priority of God’s Word for several reasons. First, if a Christian does not consciously remember and believe the truth of the Bible when he watches a television presentation of ancient civilizations, or reads a magazine article about ancient religions, then he unconsciously begins to assume that these reports have authority. He may inadvertently place this history and research over the biblical account and thus he undermines the authority of Scripture without knowing it. Over time, this has a devastating effect on his trust in the reliability of Scripture. A struggle takes place in his mind as he tries to adjust what the Bible teaches to what secular history claims.

Another important benefit to a proper understanding of the priority of God in sequence and time is the discovery that the historical data and ancient legends actually verify the truth of Scripture. The distortions that may lead people astray from the truth, when seen as the perversions they are, can provide confidence to Christians because there are clear connections to the real story. God’s Word can be trusted as the original, undis- torted, and perfectly correct version of history.

Thirdly, there is value for the future as well. If God has written this masterwork of history with a planned beginning and purposeful plot, then it has a resolute conclusion. God’s conclusion will be the outworking and fulfillment of His purpose in contrast to the counterfeit purpose of Satan and mankind. Thus, by understanding the past, the core concepts and lies of Babel, one can better understand what to expect at the end of time. This final chapter cannot be ignored, for Jesus revealed the conclusion in Revelation 17. When He returns, the religion and world government of Babel will have risen once more. There will be a world system called Babylon (the fulfillment and completion of the purposes of ancient Babel), known as the mother of abominations and all false religion (Revelation 17:5). The rebellion that began in the early days of Babel will reach its climax in the last days, days like those in the time of Noah (Matthew 24:37–39). And just as in those ancient days, the last days will come to a catastrophic end as God judges the earth for the final time.

This presupposition will be further supported in chapter 4, which gives examples of and insight into Satan’s counterfeit of God’s plan.

1 Hammurabi was the first ruler of Babylon and was very successful in gaining order and stability to the land of ancient Mesopotamia. The Code of Hammurabi was written about 1740 B.C., and some speculate that Moses only revised this code to come up with the Levitical laws.

2. MAN CREATED INTELLIGENTLY IN GOD’S IMAGE

Since the Bible is true, God created Adam and Eve in His likeness; therefore they were very intelligent, lived many years, and had great abilities in science, architecture, music, chemistry, spiritual insight, etc. They would pass this intelligence on to their children, creating many generations of very intelligent people.

If this presupposition is true, then secular ancient history needs to be rewritten.

“Then God said, ‘Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness…”’ (Genesis 1:26).

This paradigm stands in stark contrast to the evolutionary premise of early man. The naturalistic model does not fit. In contrast, the extraordinary artifacts discovered all over the earth. It should be impossible to deny the data that points to ancient civilizations with magnificent capabilities and advanced cultures. If this presupposition is true, then secular ancient history needs to be rewritten.

He was able to communicate with God: Both Adam and Eve display their intelligence in their ability to hold a conversation with God. Genesis 3:8 says, “They heard the sound of the Lord God walking in the garden…” indicating that this was a regular occurrence. When God converses with Adam and Eve, they prove to be completely fluent in speech (Genesis 3:1-2). Evidently God did not create man with the need to learn such things slowly as a child would today.

He demonstrates conscience and knowledge of right and wrong: God gave Adam and Eve a choice right at the beginning: “From any tree of the garden you may eat freely; but from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil you shall not eat, for in the day that you eat from it you will surely die” (Genesis 2:16-17). They were given the opportunity to obey or rebel. Eve also demonstrates that she had the ability to reason and when she “saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was a delight to the eyes, and that the tree was to be desired to make one wise, she took from it and ate” (Genesis 3:6). Immediately, however, they become aware that they have made a mistake and they cover themselves and hide from God (Genesis 3:10). This indicates that they had a conscience and a sense of morality that places them above that of plants or animals.

Moreover, due to their long lives (as recorded in Genesis 5), they would have been able to share their discoveries down throughout the ages and work together for long periods of time. If indeed Adam was the most intelligent man to live, then the succeeding generations who lived during his 930 years would have been able to benefit from his teaching and wisdom.

In later chapters of this book, some of the evidences that proclaim the intelligence of ancient man are presented, evidences found all over the earth. The apparent advanced construction, science, religion, and technology baffles modern man today. Viewed from an evolutionary starting point, the evidence does not fit. In contrast, the extraordinary artifacts confirm the presuppositions of the biblical model.

3. BABEL AS THE ORIGIN OF SIMILARITIES, COUNTERFEITS

Since the Bible is true, the rebellion and judgment at Babel did indeed occur and is the source of languages, the reason for the dispersion of ancient man, and explanation for all the similarities in the architecture, religion, and culture around the world.

Just as the second presupposition stands in stark contrast to the natural flow of an evolving world, this presupposition contradicts the idea that each world culture evolved slowly and primarily without influence from other civilizations. It also rests heavily on the truth of early man’s intelligence; so much of this specific study of Babel verifies the second presupposition as well. Ancient cultures all over the world show links of intelligence in areas of architecture, religion, mathematical abilities, and astronomical understandings.

Writers and researchers in the secular field marvel at the commonality and similarities of ancient civilizations worldwide. Confirming the biblical account, our research has shown commonalities in everything from construction and calenders to communication and travel. There is even evidence of navigational abilities that were lost for centuries until more recent times. An in-depth study of Genesis and the account of Babel provide a perfect basis for how these commonalities occurred.

BEGINNING WITH EDEN

It is important to note that the rebellion at Babel did not begin with the building of the tower. It was really set in motion in Genesis 3 with the serpent’s first attack on God’s Word. Satan deceived man, cast doubt on God’s truth, and tempted man with independence; that disobedient bite of fruit was man’s first attempt to “be like God, knowing good and evil” (Genesis 3:5). Babel was the founder of Babel. In Genesis 11:1, “Come, let us build for ourselves a city, and a tower whose top will reach into heaven, and let us make for ourselves a name, otherwise we will be scattered abroad over the face of the whole earth” (Genesis 11:4; emphasis added). The call indicates three goals: a city, a tower, and a name. The first goal was the building of the city itself. The text also suggests that the motivation behind this project had a purpose beyond the three stated goals. Building the city was, in fact, a direct act of rebellion against God. God had instructed Noah to fill the earth, but builders of the tower determined to come together and unify lest they be scattered. This outright disobedience of God’s command may seem surprising — after all, these new generations would have grown up hearing stories of the judgment which destroyed all of mankind when he previously rebelled. Yet as the years went by, believing the fantastic accounts of a worldwide Flood would require an increasing amount of faith. No doubt, Noah cautioned people to stay close to God in their hearts and obey His with their actions but, as history has proven again and again, man prefers to make his own way, suppressing the truth in unrighteousness.

And so mankind rejected God and put his faith in the strength of unity. The call to build the city was a direct affront to the command and will of God. In it, man created his own place of safety and security without God. They could benefit from fellowship and pooled resources, be entertained by festivals, and plan for the future together. Man is a social creature, created for fellowship first with God and then with other men. Hermitism is not the norm. An history and culture worldwide demonstrate, there is a desire and a need that lures people to unity and the hope it offers. This desire for unity is not wrong, but the problem arises when man tries to be united while rejecting God. God has a plan in which men work together as part of the body of Christ (1 Corinthians 12:1–26). It is only when men follow God’s original instructions that true unity can be achieved.

Remember, Satan cannot create but only pervert. It is certain that he was actively involved in the building of the city, and therefore his influence cannot be forgotten. Yet since only God can create, where did this idea of a city come from? One can trace throughout the Bible that the cities started with God. He has an ultimate plan for the city of God (Psalm 46:4; Revelation 21:2) and a kingdom built on righteousness (Psalm 89:14). So knowing the importance of cities to God’s plan, Satan, in his desire to be like God, perverts the idea and turns city building into a rebellion against God. With the building of that first city, the construction of Babel, the counterfeit began in earnest. Satan’s forged story line continues to this day and will become exceedingly more evident as the last days draw near.

At Babel, Satan began the effort of world domination. From the concept of the unifying city comes the idea of one-world government. This goal has been the underlying promise of countless world powers throughout history, but it began at Babel. Through this concept Satan implemented his next step in his attempt to overthrow the authority of God.

The second goal at Babel was to build a tower. To understand this significance one must understand the purpose of the tower. The text says it was to be built “to heaven,” signifying that it was religious in nature and purpose. It was to be the worship center, the crowning glory of the city. These people were, in fact, beginning something new: a collective, organized, one-world religious system. Of course, since Satan cannot create but can only pervert, the new religious system was only a counterfeit of God’s original truth, which had been previously revealed to mankind. Indeed,
